Q: Why is it windy at ball games?

A: Because of all the fans

Brianna, age 7

Very funny, Brianna! Send Kirby your own joke at your credit union's Kirby Kangaroo® website.

Kirby Kid

Kirby's Adventures

Brooke Lyn, 6, is in first grade and a cheerleader at her school. She's also a Girl Scout Daisy and sold more than 300 boxes of cookies this year.

Brooke Lyn recently lost her first tooth and put the dollar she got under her pillow into her piggy bank. She's been a Kirby Kid since she was about 2. Right now she's saving her money for travel.

"I'm saving to go to London to see the Queen. My Mimi is taking me. We're going to see a real castle. And my mom and I want to go to Disneyland too."

Brooke Lyn shares something special with Kirby Kangaroo. Both of them have a birthday of August 10!

Kirby's ZOO-per happy birthday

Kirby Kangaroo was so excited. His grandparents, Nana and Poppa, were giving him $100 to do whatever he wanted for a day with them, and he could keep anything that was left. So on the big day, Kirby decided they should all go to the zoo.

Admission to the zoo was $10 each for Nana and Poppa and $5 for Kirby. All morning they wandered wherever Kirby wanted to go and saw elephants, lions, tigers and giraffes.

For lunch, Kirby, Nana and Poppa ate at the zoo café. Burgers, chips and sodas cost Kirby $25. After lunch, they watched from an underwater window at the polar bear exhibit as the big bears swam by. One came right up to the window and Kirby could see how huge his claws were. In the rhinoceros exhibit a newborn baby rhino stayed close to his mother.

In the gift shop, Kirby decided to buy a memento of the day, a T-shirt with a picture of the rhinoceros for $20.

At the end of the day, he thanked Nana and Poppa and waved goodbye. He still had $30 for another adventure. His parents promised to take him to the credit union so he could put the money in his savings account. It turned out to be Kirby's best birthday ever!

Try This Out!

Super bubble super fun

Try this recipe for giant super bubbles.

- Coat hanger wire (to make wand)
- 6 cups water
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 2 cups dishwashing soap
(If using an ultra concentrated dishwashing liquid, use only 1<sup>1</sup>/<sub>3</sub> cups)

In a large bowl (at least 3 quarts) stir water and corn syrup until combined. Add dishwashing liquid and stir very gently until well mixed. Make a bubble wand from wire and have fun!
